Sun Facts

01 The Sun or any planet moving into the next sign is called an "ingress."

02 Transits may stand out more in houses where the Sun is not natally in your chart. This is because we get used to the energy of our natal Sun house placement and can be taken by surprise by new energy.

03 The process of the Sun's degrees approaching the same degree of another planet is called "applying."

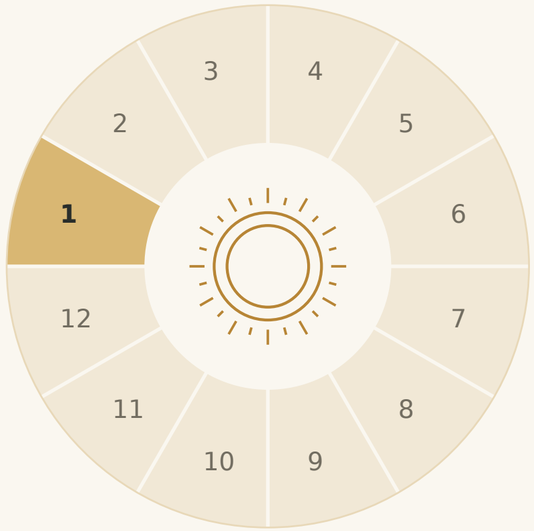

04 The process of the Sun's degrees getting further from an exact aspect to a planet (usually a slower-moving planet) is called separating; the energy between the two decreases.

05 Pay special attention to Sun sign seasons of your opposite sign or square signs because there will be moments when it aspects your natal Sun and creates obstacles.

06 Similarly, pay attention to the seasons when the Sun sextiles and trines your natal Sun to seize opportunities to develop different aspects of your key traits.

Sun transiting

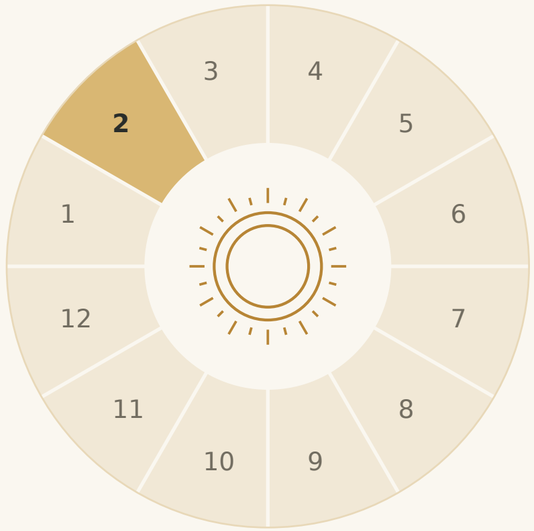

1st house

The focus is more on being seen and noticed - not just through action - but through identity. Asserting yourself and being more active in showcasing who you are is more thematic. If you are usually more modest, you may feel at least more open to making a statement through your activities.

Sun transiting

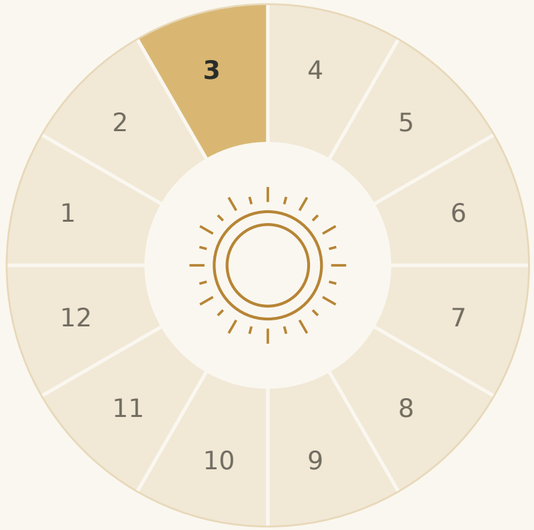

2nd house

Stay still and be steady. Take the time to truly evaluate what you have at your disposal. You are able to be seen and praised for what you possess. This is especially important to any of the Fire/Air signs that benefit from a sense of self-value and respect for what you already are and have during this transit. This is a good time to make money and save.

Sun transiting

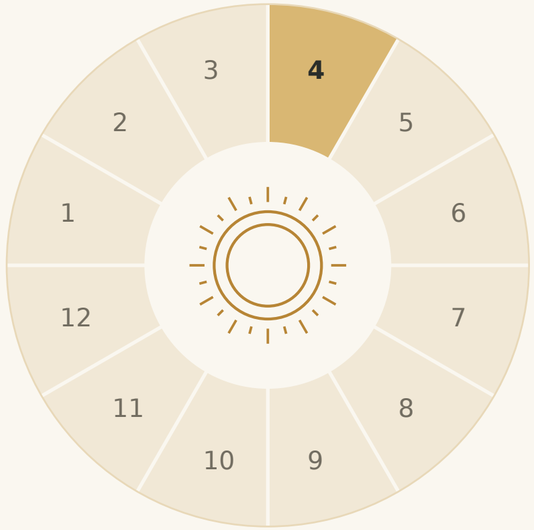

3rd house

You feel more compelled to be acknowledged for what you think at this time. You can shine in areas of writing, communication, or study. This may be a good time to take on speaking engagements, engage in interviews, and take exams. Sibling themes may also be highlighted during this transit.

Sun transiting

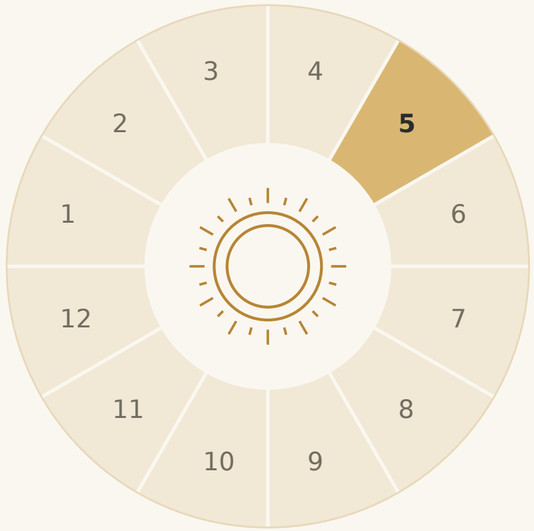

4th house

You may feel a strong sense of responsibility over the well-being of others or your own sense of emotional confidence. You are leading or considering matters dealing with the home.

Sun transiting

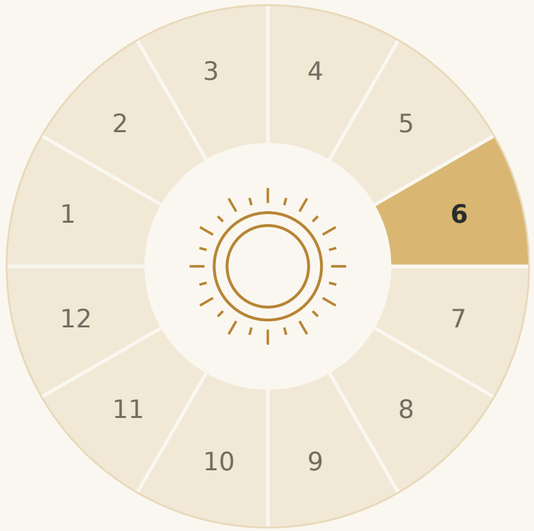

5th house

To distinguish this from the confusion between the 1st house, this transit focuses less on identity and more on performance and talents. You may exert more creative energy during this transit and have more endurance. Schedule performance tasks or personal events at this time.

Sun transiting

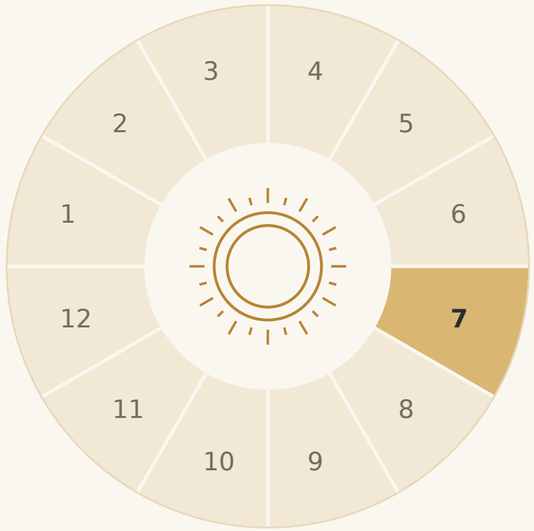

6th house

Recognition for your efforts is essential at this time. You want credit for your work and may seek opportunities to be noticed for your sense of responsibility. Self-improvement, health, and being seen as useful can be highlighted during this transit.

Sun transiting

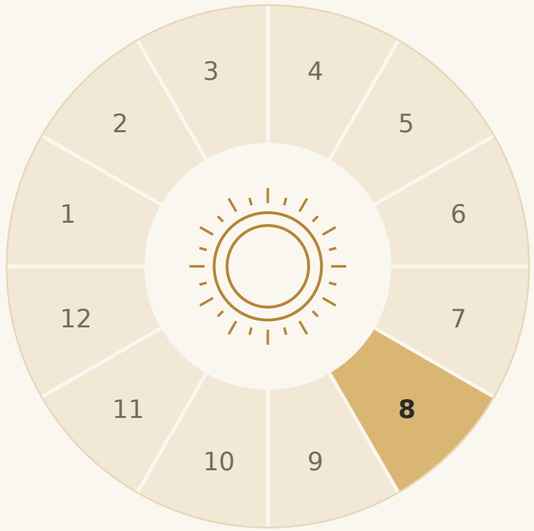

7th house

Your role within partnerships is enhanced at this time. This is a good time to seek or accept partnership or business endeavors (especially if other aspects are in agreement). Settle legal problems or disputes through the natural traits of your Sun sign.

Sun transiting

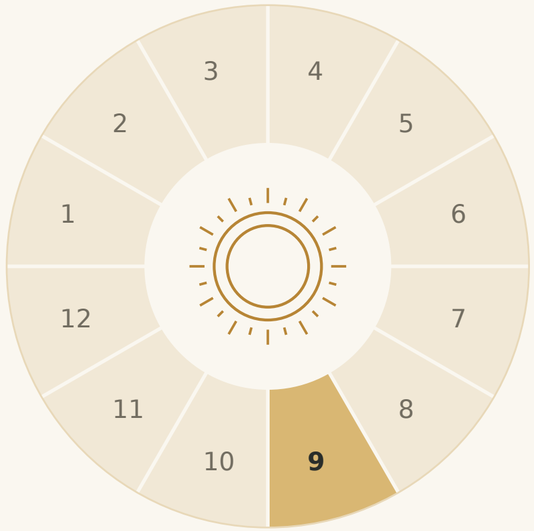

8th house

What you believe about yourself isn't enough at this time. You are focused on what you need to become. This is especially true if the Sun is squaring any planets. You wish to evolve, and this pressure makes you dissatisfied with the status quo. You may find that you are testing yourself to become more evolved. You are more concerned with how to benefit from resources around you.

Sun transiting

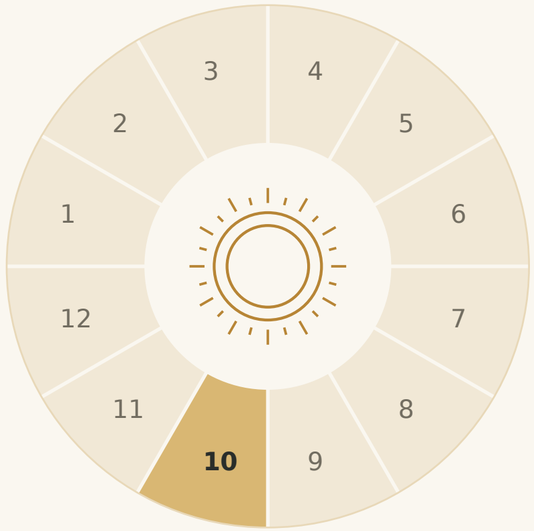

9th house

Self-promotion is important at this time. Your beliefs are more easily expressed or listened to at this moment. This transit is good for publishing or public speaking where you have a large platform. This is a less inhibited time for you and you may be more interested in journeys that build self-confidence.

Sun transiting

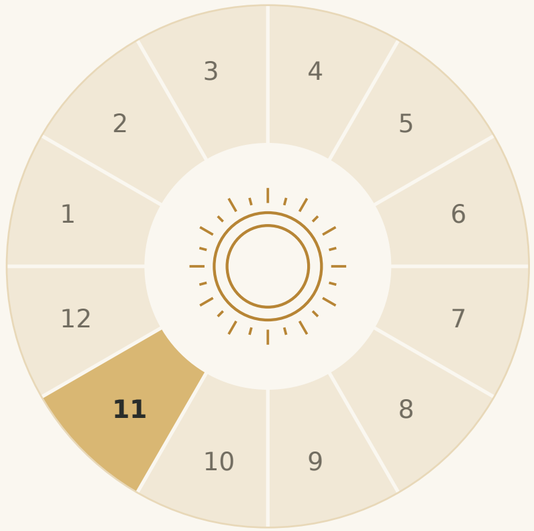

10th house

Serious goal-attainment or major updates in your accomplishments are more optimal at this time. This transit tends to bring promotions, raises, or major career decisions that help with achievement. You may take yourself more seriously during this transit.

Sun transiting

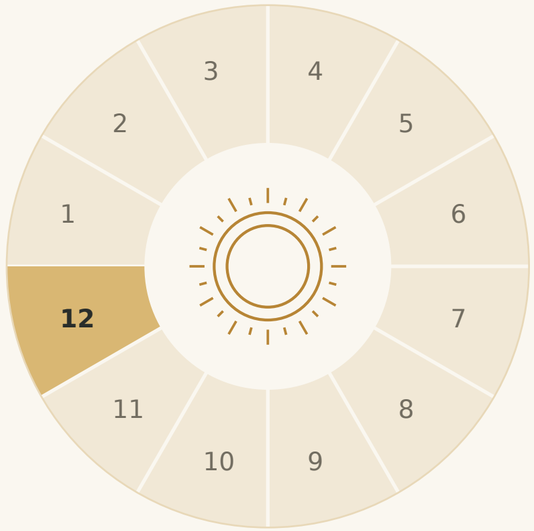

11th house

You may find that people are more welcoming or notice your attributes more. You feel more accepted socially or see exactly where you fit in within certain groups of people. Joining organizations or group activities is more ideal (for those interested) during this transit.

Sun transiting

12th house

You may appreciate or want solitude at this time even if you are usually a very extroverted person. You need to disconnect to learn how to cope on a spiritual level and develop traits that are less self-serving. This is an ideal time to work behind the scenes on projects or personal tasks that don't require deadlines but are more rooted in creativity or personal purpose.

Transiting Sun Sign Guiding Questions

Aries	What do I need courage to do? How can I take initiative in the themes of this house?
Taurus	Am I in sync with my true inner self? What do I value most, and how do I ensure I am in my comfort zone?
Gemini	How do I communicate in this house better? What questions do I need to ask related to this topic?
Cancer	In which ways am I showing appreciation for who and what matters most to me?
Leo	Which parts of myself associated with this house need to shine or be acknowledged?
Virgo	How do I plan to arrange and improve in this area during this transit?
Libra	What role am I playing in my relationships, and do I feel appreciated?
Scorpio	How am I handling the change and transformation needed in this area?
Sagittarius	What truths am I willing to embody? How am I unapologetic about what is right to me?
Capricorn	What in this area of life do I need to feel successful about?
Aquarius	Am I embracing my individuality? What in this house requires me to reject the status quo?
Pisces	How do I express my creativity more in this area? How am I bringing compassion, sensitivity, or acceptance to this house?